THE FRENCH CLERGY WILL PREACH THE SAFETY OF THE REPUBLIC.

Mrs. Langtry's yacht Awaits Her at Marcellus-London's Gates and Here to be Removed—A Housing Reception Preparing for Miss Frances Willard—Catholics May Meet on the Kaiser's Birthday.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Advice from France that the Vatican has advised the clergy to preach the safety of the republic and to calm the fears of the people. The Socialists and Anarchists are seeking to cause an outbreak in Paris, and ill-suppressed excitement prevails there. Hon. Mr. Gladstone has issued special editions of the newspapers containing the rumors are eagerly bought, and the cafes are thronged with loungers discussing the situation. A curious phase of the situation is that the holiday excursion trains run with empty coaches, and that the boulevards, usually thronged with visitors from the provinces about this time are nearly deserted, while the booths which usually minister to the patronage of such visitors are closed. Parisian tradesmen complain that times were never so dull. This is also an ominous feature of the situation, for it indicates that rural visitors are afraid to go to the city, and that people are tightening their purses, not knowing what may happen.

Concurrently with the appointment of Colonel the Hon. Sir Joseph West Ridgeway, formerly Under Secretary for Ireland under the Salisbury-Balfour administration, to the position of Sir Robert G. C. Hamilton, Governor of Tasmania, has arrived in London. Hamilton, who is a Liberal and a man of large ability, was Under Secretary for Ireland in 1888. Balfour wanted to get Hamilton out of the way on account of his knowledge of Irish affairs, and his appointment was considered as a concession to the Tories, and had him appointed Governor of Tasmania. The Unionist newspapers all praise the appointment of Ridgeway to the Morocco mission, being unsympathetic to the Liberal Government. Mr. Morley has merely stated Ridgeway off in order to obtain the services of Hamilton, who will be of immense service on the Home Rule bill and will go to work immediately on that measure. Hamilton will be a most valuable aid to Mr. Morley on all Irish questions, with which he is well acquainted. The Irish press applaud the move, while grumbling in their sleeves.

The mutterings of the coming session have already begun on both sides. Joseph Chamberlain and Sir Henry James are visiting the Duke of Devonshire at Cornforth. A meeting of English Liberals has been summoned to decide where they will sit in the House of Commons. It is believed that Chamberlain has been engaged during the recess in preparing speeches for the coming session. The House of Commons will be opened on Monday, and will be a most valuable aid to Mr. Morley on all Irish questions, with which he is well acquainted. The Irish press applaud the move, while grumbling in their sleeves.

NOTES ON GERMAN AFFAIRS.

CAPRIVI ASKS THAT THE ARMY BILL BE EXPEDITED.

He Is Stronger with the Emperor Than Ever—Bismarck Again Takes the Offensive—The Strike of the Saar Miners Expected to Collapse This Week—Disaffected Rivers by Means of Electric Currents.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—When the holiday season came to an end public attention was again turned to the Army bill. The Reichstag will resume its sittings on Tuesday. The committee of the House to which was referred the Army bill will meet on Wednesday. Chancellor Caprivi has requested the President of the committee to ask the members to expedite their deliberations in order not to retard the final decision of the Reichstag, for which, he said, not Germany alone, but all Europe waits with anxiety.

According to the belief entertained in official circles the Chancellor has completed a statement giving the private reason for the Government's demands for an increase in the number of the army effective. This reason, it is said, is that an increase of the effective is indispensable, not only in the present bill, but in any army measure that might be proposed. In his private dealings with the leaders of the several parties, the Chancellor is displaying much tact, and his course of action is such as to elicit the admiration even of his adversaries.

Nothing is now heard of the Chancellor's retirement from office. His position with the Emperor is stronger than ever, and his development of personal resources staggers his opponents, who are becoming weak under the apprehension that the bill will be passed without a vote of confidence of importance being made by the Government.

The opposition papers are trying to raise a party in the Reichstag. They are calling for the resignation of the Chancellor. The Emperor, however, is not likely to be moved. He is known to be an opponent of the measure. The Emperor, however, is not likely to be moved. He is known to be an opponent of the measure.
